Illustration and message pairs are provided outside the box for standard scenarios (with more to come), so you won't have to start from scratch. Please let us know if you are finding the guidelines helpful, or if something is wrong or missing. For example, you can use invisible text to let users know when a list of results is displayed or when a multilevel dialog box changes your Appearance responsive table Content UpdateThe now supports additional keyboard shortcuts when focus is inline: space selects One ItemDel triggers Delete Button triggers NavigationF2 Finishes adding edit button, we recommend inserting as a shortcut to create when adding items and Ctrl + comma to open the box of customization dialogue. The direction manipulation is updated to Reflect the "Reflect" - "Areflect My Situations" App with a flexible column layout my Situations App with flexible column layout There is also more information about layout details for the situation page, and how to switch between situations, if more than one situation occur for an object or For an item in a list of objects. Other content updates for a complete view of all updates, check out what's new in version 1.88 Sap Fiori Design StencilsC A see what's been updated in SAP Fiori for Web Stencils and download the latest versions below: We're constantly expanding our research library, so make sure to check the latest download before you start working on a new app design. Using the guidance that we first introduced the design guidelines over 5 years ago, the number of topics more than doubled, blurring some of the boundaries in the original navigation structure. The smart form can create read - and editable views of a form using the Odata annotations for the smart fields. The SAP Fiori Design guidelines for web applications have been updated to version 1.88. The best practices in the guidelines will help you adapt them to your own scenariosDeleting Objects Part of a series of updates to the guidelines on object handling, there is now a dedicated topic on the exclusion of objects. We will do our best to track and improve the content. OptionNote Feedback To protect your privacy, any feedback you provide is anonymous, meaning we can't answer any questions. With version 1.88, we adapted the guideline navigation menu to organize the general content more consistently and make it easier to identify what is in each section.Revisable Menu Navigation In addition, all top-level menu items now have an introduction for better guidance. guidance.
